LIONS AWARD

The handsome bronze plaque that Lion District Governor Einar Holmgren has just presented to young Edwin Erickson, says, "For Meritorious Service" and was presented by the Drayton Valley Lion Club in recognition of the life-saving act of Edwin, when on a trip into Edmonton with his father and grandfather, he applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when a grandfather fell over on a city street, and ceased breathing, apparently the victim of a heart attack. Quick-thinking young Edwin immediately applied the artificial respiration technique which he had learned in a First Aid class which had been conducted in Drayton Valley by Calgary Power.

Lion District Governor Holmgren was present with the local Lions club for the presentation and at the same time he inducted four brand new Lions into International Lionism, via the Drayton Valley Lion Club. Assistant District Governor Leo Tind in the induction was Lion Zone Chair man Peter Nebo, of the local club.

ACCIDENT

Bill Davies of Drayton Valley was seriously injured when while working in the Swan Hills district when a play-step blew up in his face. He was employed with Flat Rig at the time of the accident. The accident occurred during the late afternoon of Wednesday, November 13, Mr. Davies was runned by an ambulance to the hospital in Barhead, for observation and from there he was taken to the Royal Alexandra in Edmonton.

He is scheduled for a facial operation today this afternoon (Wednesday, November 20) following extensive X-rays of his face. Apparently the injuries were not quite as severe as had first been thought. The operation will be to set bones in his face, nose, cheek bones, and his upper jaw.

Remembrance Day Wreath

At the Remembrance Day services held by the Drayton Valley Legion in the Community Hall, Mrs. Jean Chertogian, of Moon Lake, laid the "Widow's Wreath," honoring all the War Dead, but also her own son, George Hugh, who was killed in 1945, at the age of twenty. George Chertogian was serving with the Calgary 1st Regiment at the time of his death. He left a daughter, Miss Leona Chertogian, who is now working in Edmonton. Mrs. Chertogian's husband Bill was also in the service. The Chertogians came to Moon Lake district in the early '30's. They still reside there on their farm.

Over 65? $200 a month can be yours for life!
No pipe-dream this—but the guaranteed reality of a Manufacturers Life Annuity. Whether you live for five years or twenty-five or more, you'll get a cheque for $200 every month.
Let's face it—you're put in a lot of hard work over the past forty years of so. Your retirement years are your reward. The finest way to enjoy your retirement is to have a steady, worry-free income. The best way to achieve this is to buy a Manufacturers Life Annuity.
You hand over to Manufacturers Life the worry and risk of maintaining an income. Through the annuity arrangement your capital and the interest it earns are "scientifically" combined to give you a guaranteed income for the rest of your life. How much does an annuity cost? It depends on the income you need to carry out your dreams and plans for those years after 65. For example, the lifetime monthly income of $200 we were talking about would cost a man of 65 only $14,000.
It's well worth looking into. The Man from Manufacturers has all the details. Give him a call today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sirs:

Since our October newsletter we have held a board meeting - discussing your business. Two weeks later we journeyed again to the Coast - looking private with us a number of your business officers.

DIRECTOR C.T.A. Your President was privileged in being elected director of the Canadian Tourist Association, along with four distinguished British Columbian: Hugh Mills, Esq., vice-president; Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Dr. David Turner, Deputy Minister Recreation and Conservation; William Hawkins, Jr., Esq., Commissioner Tourist for Vancouver Island and the executive vice-president Vancouver Tourist and Convention Bureau - J.V. Hughes Esq.

PROFIT HOSPITALITY.... As general chairman of two B.C. Hospitality Seminars, I would like to mention the importance of SERVICE in the business of the visitor industry. This MAJOR industry is all the more important to our economy because of the fact that you can LOOK AND LOOK at all our incomparable scenery and attractions without in any way depleting them. The only thing our visitors "take away" is the unforgettable memory of British Columbia's rich endowment. SERVICE will enhance this memory.

FOREIGN CARS.... The laundry to August figures in foreign cars entering Canada is up six per cent from 5,279,000, versus our National Parks visit 22,000,000.

1963, using 15,647,000 gallons of gasoline - paying tax of $1,071,043.00.

CHANGING SCENES The new Edmonton Tourist Centre has changing rooms facilities where tourists can change clothes before entering the city proper.

PRESIDENT A.T.A. In response to your President's contention made with various Alberta Tourist Officials, Mr. Ted Krenner, President of Alberta Tourist Assn., stated our Board Meeting: "I'm sure we can work together for a bigger and better tourist program for the annual good of both provinces. I skip the Alberta Tourist Association to this end."

GALA OPENING.... Vancouver Visitors Bureau President, Frank Baker, invited your President to be head table guest at their annual meeting and luncheon. It was an enthusiastic, overflow affair, with Hon. P. A. Campbell giving an informative and thought-provoking address, at 4 P.M. A colorful and dynamic former alderman Frank Baker chaired and made up as Captain Vancouver, conducted the gala opening of their modern, new quarters at 550 Burrard Street. It will be a memorable event with seven mayors simultaneously cutting seven ribbons.

Your very truly, Elwood C. Rice President of B.C.T.A., Chairman of the Board of Directors.

SWINE TOURN

CANADA TO U.S.A. SWINE TOUR LEAVES CALGARY.

On November 14th, 37 Alberta farmers and others associated with the swine raising industry in the Province embarked on a swine tour to the United States. Their loaded bus carries them to major swine producing States of Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and South Dakota.

The tour, organized by Calgary Power Ltd., with the cooperation of Department of Agriculture and Universities on both sides of the boundary, has been designed to provide new ideas and information on housing and feeding techniques. Artificial insemination data and the operation of testing stations are included in the varied program. Some emphasis will also be placed on corn and soybean acreage in preventing diseases common to new-born swine.

Members of the tour will do their part in preserving the rigid rules practiced with respect to cleanliness in the swine industry. Frequently washed white coveralls and special plastic foot covering will be the main wearings during the tour.

After an overnight stop in Regina the Albertans will arrive in Illinois, North Dakota, on Saturday where their studies begin in earnest. From there they will begin the tour schedule with a two hour visit to a brand new "pork factory" - a farm concept in swine raising from birth to bacon.

It's Difficult ...

It's very difficult to follow Prime Minister Pearson's reasoning as expressed in his "message" to Canada last Sunday evening. Mr. Pearson suggested that our country was composed of "English speaking" and "French speaking" people.

Well, our information on the subject is that we have Ukrainian, Polish, German, Russian, Dutch, and many other language-speaking people in Canada. These people, along with many who speak French, make up the population of our great country, and are contributing greatly to its growth.

THE NANTON NEWS

Save and Invest in Canada

"Save and Invest in Canada" would be a good slogan for the country's Centennial Year.

There have been many outcries about the foreign capital invested in Canada. But the Canadians themselves will have to be given the opportunity to save before they can accumulate capital to invest anywhere. With the weight of taxation at present and the economy of the country geared to encourage spending, not saving, there is not much hope of Canadians being in a position to save and invest any worthwhile amount of money.

Should the idea of saving and investing in Canada take root, it might be a step in the right direction if examples in major economies were set by governments.

Dollar Value Down

On one hand the public is being subjected to advertising pressure to purchase government bonds.

On the other hand, the public may well wonder what the value of the dollars will be when they cash these bonds a number of years hence.

An article in this edition of The News claims that a person who cashes a government bond this year, which he bought in 1946, will receive the full number of dollar bills. But in terms of real value each dollar will be worth only 50 cents.

Retired people, those with fixed or restricted incomes and those who have saved money are the hardest hit by the fall of the dollar in purchasing power.

This inflationary trend probably will be halted only if governments stop spending money they haven't got and workers hold the line on wages.

satisfaction of accomplishing something and of leaving the world better than you found it, and that's something.

THE TROCHU TRIBUNE states — There are three occupations pursued in practically every town which require more than average intellectual fortitude and a thick skin. These three vocations each have to do with the matter of disseminating information and offering unasked-for advice and constructive criticism. They are the clergy, the press and the teaching profession.

THE RIMSBY RECORD.

The difference between these other-than-English-or-French speaking Canadians and the Quebecers is that the former have accepted Canada as a nation and their own land. In most cases, they have preserved certain aspects of their own heritage and culture, but they have aggressively taken their place as Canadians, working for Canada. As a matter of fact, they've done so well that Mr. Pearson, our Prime Minister, now classifies them as English-speaking Canadians.

Somebody should brief Mr. Pearson on how Canada (outside of his own little Eastern Canada) shall live.

Editorially SPEAKING

The picture below shows a Centotaph that one man has erected to honour the War Dead of this area. We are struck by the fact that invariably in stories and write-ups regarding Remembrance Day the papers mention that "A Service of Commemoration was held at the Centotaph."

Perhaps the time has come for us of this district to erect a similar memorial in Drayton Valley itself. The matter has been discussed by Legion members of the Drayton Valley Legion. Invariably when the subject comes up someone says: "But where could we put it?"

That question, of course, perhaps has no easy answer, as the centotaph memorial should be put as close to the downtown district as possible. We hope that in the near future some public minded citizen will suggest, or, even better, make available a good spot somewhere not too far from the downtown district.

Mr. Cameron, as stated below, has indicated that should the local Legion desire to build one out of native stone, he will be glad to assist in any way that he can.

Scoop's NOTEBOOK

A "golden" party was held for Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stirling who are leaving for Wales.

Mr. Green held a small farewell gathering for the couple on the eve of their departure. The honeymooning couple, who are in this area, were presented with a gift of a travel check.

Friends of the well-known couple will surely miss them and bid them "bon voyage".

Jack Argent, formerly of Drayton Valley, whom he opposed a "four" oilfield service, and a pipeline distribution and service centre, has gone to the Braxton Park area in 50 miles where he is engaged in the big development going on there.

Two nights a week he goes into the University of Alberta where he studies Business Administration and Real Estate.

Mr. Fred Cameron, of the Rocky Rapids area, stands beside his Centotaph, constructed of stone found by Mr. Cameron in his travels throughout the district. It contains almost every kind of stone, including petrified wood, of which Mr. Cameron has a large collection. The perfectly formed cross plainly discernable on the face of the centotaph was given the Rocky Rapids farmer-collector, by Mr. Butler. The centotaph honours the War Dead from the Rocky Rapids district, including Mr. and Mrs. Cameron's son, Will Andrew, who was killed in the Italy war operations at the time of the invasion by Allied forces. Also commemorated are Douglas Wall and McWille Miller, of the district.

The centotaph is constructed of conglomerate, which abounds in the area. If one knows what they are looking for, and since Mr. Cameron has been an expert rock-hunter for at least a quarter of a century he knows just what he is looking for. In his search for rare and unique types of rock he sometimes goes as far afield as the Braxton Dam area. The Rocky Rapids farmer says that should the local Legion wish to construct a similar centotaph in Drayton Valley he can supply them with all the rock, of all types, that they might need for the construction.

By JOY POLLARD-
Nelson, B.C.

Notre Dame University of Nelson, B.C., has established itself from an infant college in 1950 to a full degree-granting University in 1963 — a period of only 13 years.

Bill 64, passed by the B.C. Legislature in March, 1963, awarded university status, enabling NDU to offer an accredited degree as well as high academic standards, qualified instructors and modern facilities. It is all the result of a young, aggressive, well trained faculty, currently headed by Rev. Aquinas Thomas, S.A., president of the university.

FOLLOWED A TOUGH ROAD

The growth of Notre Dame was not simple and easy. Often for every step forward, there would appear a step backward. Through the determined efforts of The Most Rev. Martin M. Johnson, D.D., then Bishop of Nelson and now Co-Adjutor Archbishop of Vancouver and founder of Notre Dame, and the original instructors, Rev. Dr. L. R. McKenzie, Vice-President of the University and A. L. Cartier, now Director of Adult Education in Vic-Rev. Aquinas Thomas, Notre Dame struggled to take the first uncertain steps in its development.

In his progress report at the end of the 1953-54 academic year, Mr. Cartier stated, "It is relatively easy to pioneer a university in pioneer times — but when we are surrounded by well-established colleges and universities, then to pioneer a new one requires a rare kind of courage upon the part of professors, students and benefactors."

Father McKenzie and Mr. Cartier, together with 12 students began classes in the old Choquette Bakery which had for several years been abandoned. Twelve subjects were taught, five of them laboratory courses, and it was necessary to improvise and borrow supplies and equipment. However, each student did well this first year despite the adverse conditions and heavy academic loads.

During the first summer, affiliation was arranged with Gonzaga University in Spokane. In the fall 21 students registered in first and second year courses and three new teachers joined the staff.

Space in the basement of the Cathedral Hall was remodelled and equipped to handle all first year sciences and second year Analytical Chemistry. Students overcame the odds that year to come up with what was thought to be almost impossible — 100 per cent passes.

The fall of 1952 saw 61 students enrolled and third-year courses were included in the curriculum. The physical plant was bulging at the seams. Chemistry labs had to be handled in three shifts; there were only 24 chairs in the library and no room on the shelves for the growing number of books.

LIVE IN BUNKHOUSES

Not only were the classrooms overcrowded, so were the makeshift residences. The Men's Residence — tarpaper bunkhouses — and cook-houses were located near Mount St. Francis and the Women's Residence was located near Cathedral Hall. This meant an uphill trek of two miles for each meal taken at the cook-houses and the same distance back to the classrooms.

A second major step was taken in 1953 following the official recognition of Notre Dame University College by the Federal and Provincial governments. A track of forested land on the outskirts of the City of Nelson was purchased and the campus was moved to this site. A prefabricated two-story building containing a dining room, kitchen, recreational lounge, administrative office, three classrooms and a Science Laboratory was erected by Faculty and students.

In rapid succession, as an ever-increasing demand was put on Notre Dame's facilities, other buildings were added to the campus. In 1955 a dormitory, La Salle Hall, which could house 94 male students was built — women students were still boarding with local residents — followed by a chapel which could seat 140.

But Notre Dame was still growing beyond its financial resources, and it was necessary to buy and renovate two buildings from the City of Nelson for a Men's Residence, housing a chapel which could seat 140.

A co-op system was instituted, prior to the construction of the first buildings on campus. In which the spirit of the students and faculty prevailed. Two students carried out initial surveys of ground elevations to help find the most suitable location for buildings. Everyone worked weekends to dig a 400-foot ditch through forest and stone for a water line and all pitched in to erect the prefabricated sections of the original building. There was something for everyone to do, from working the end of a shovel to wielding hammer or paint brush.

The co-op system has been retained, in modified form, to provide for students who are in need of financial assistance.

NEW ERA BEGINS

A new era began at Notre Dame in the summer of 1959 with the arrival of Rev. Aquinas Thomas, S.A., to fill the position of Rector. Since then progress has been rapid. In 1961 Notre Dame became affiliated with Saint Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and third and fourth year courses were planned. Then in the spring of 1963, through the combined efforts of Father Aquinas and the Most Rev. W. E. Doyle, Bishop of Nelson, Bill 64 was passed in the B.C. Legislature. Notre Dame became a University in her own right. First students will receive degrees under Notre Dame's new status in September 1964.

Behind The News

Nature Favors Dominicans

The Dominican Republic, scene of a military coup, occupies the eastern two-thirds of the mountainous green island of Hispaniola.

It has often been buffeted in the past by the Caribbean's tropical and political storms, but in certain respects nature has favored the Dominican Republic over many of its neighbors.

The Spanish-speaking population of 5,014,000 lives in an area of some 19,000 square miles. The National Geographic Society says. Unlike crowded Haiti, the land is not overpopulated. Much of the soil is so rich and black that sugar cane will grow from the same roots for years, and green fence posts turn themselves into trees. The earth contains a variety of minerals.

TYRANNY OF TRUJILLO

The potentially rich nation lay under the dark shadow of dictator Rafael L. Trujillo from 1930 and 1961, when he was slain by assassins. Political instability followed. Juan Bosch, the Republic's first democratically elected president in many decades, was deposed in the September, 1963, coup.

While Dominicans were ruthlessly deprived of freedom and representative government during the long Trujillo era, extensive development programs strung the nation with a network of roads and brought economic gains. Yet the country was run like a private fief: illiteracy, unemployment and poverty remained rampant. The Alliance for Progress has been helping to pump new life into the farm-based economy. The money crop is sugar, and in this the Dominican Republic can claim one of its many firsts. The New World's first sugar cane came west with Columbus on his "second voyage." Dominicans will more than a million tons of sugar a year, in addition to growing huge crops of cacao beans, coffee, rice, peanuts and tobacco. Cattle raising is a big industry.

Nature gave the Dominican Republic an even-tempered climate, not counting hurricanes. In turn the Dominicans established a favorable business climate for foreign investors. Canadian and American dollars greatly expanded the exploitation of aluminum, nickel and iron.

The capital and chief city, whose name reverted to Santo Domingo from Ciudad Trujillo in 1961, stands on the south coast where the Ozama River meets the sea. At the city's back wooded hills rise toward the central mountain ranges and forests of long-needed fire. Far to the northwest is the West Indies' highest peak, 10,417-foot Pico Duarte.

SPAIN'S COLONIAL CROSSROADS

Though it is a modern showplace, the capital echoes with memories of Columbus, Cortes, Balboa, Ponce de Leon, De Soto and other adventurers. The original settlement (Nueva Isabela) was established in 1496 by Columbus's brother, Bartolome. A hurricane in 1502 levelled the young town. Rebuilt as Santo Domingo de Guzman, it thrived as Spain's capital in the West.

Colonial life was never calm. If not under assault from English or French invaders, Dominicans were beset by pirates and, between times, torn by bitter domestic quarrels. In 1844 Dominicans revolted against Haitian rule and set up the republic. Occupation by United States Marines from 1916 to 1924 quelled continuing disorder; a constitutional government was installed. Six years later, Trujillo, a young officer in the Dominican guard, became president.

About two weeks after he took office, a hurricane flattened the city, leaving little intact but solid old colonial masonry. Reconstructed and renamed Ciudad Trujillo, the capital has a wealth of colonial monuments — the first Christian church, the first cathedral, the first postally established university of the New World. The restored fortress-mansion of Columbus's son, Diego, stands vigil over the harbor.

This Week's Cover Picture

In "this day of colonial universities" where thousands of students receive their education on a production-line system, the case of Notre Dame University at Nelson, B.C., is refreshing proof that there are lots of young people in the West who are prepared to work hard, physically and mentally to get a higher education. In 1950, the University of Notre Dame at Nelson was started in the abandoned bakery building shown at the top. It now has the fine building shown at the bottom and is preparing to grant degrees to a graduating class next spring — a full fledged, recognized university built by the hard work and determination of students and staff.
